

The Semmens Award

For five years, Elizabeth Semmens and her family, Robert, Susan and Kate have been members of New York City Juniors Volleyball Association. Over the course of their membership, they displayed an unwavering commitment and dedication to Elizabeth's teammates and family members, her coaches, NYCJVA, and the sport of volleyball. Due to her personal commitment and drive to excel, Elizabeth is now a student at the University of Pennsylvania where she continues to pursue her love for the game.

The Semmens family has given so much of their time, energy and support to NYCJVA and in their honor; NYCJVA has founded The Semmens Award. This award is a scholarship given to a deserving athlete who exhibits energy, drive, and commitment to the sport of volleyball and to the club. The athlete chosen for this award will be given the opportunity to attend volleyball camp for a week paid for by NYCJVA.

In order to be considered for this scholarship, athletes must require financial assistance, receive a recommendation from their coach, and fill out The Semmens Award application. Upon completion of the application, both the coach's recommendation and The Semmens Award application must be mailed by April 1st to Doug Levine at 51 Windsor Place, Brooklyn N.Y. 11215.
